WHAT'S NEW ON ENGAGE ORTHODOXY?

Engage Orthodoxy is a beautiful website created by FLM to provide resources and inspiration for our Orthodox family. EO hosts several blogs written by Orthodox authors on timely topics. In addition to blogs, EO has launched a podcast aimed at Orthodox homeschool families of teens.

LOOKING FOR INTERACTIVE ORTHODOX BOOKS FOR TEENS?

Forged and Woven are interactive books created by FLM to help young people explore what it means to be faithful Orthodox young men or women in today's world. In addition to the books there are more activities, movie night suggestions, and discussion articles provided in our free downloadable facilitator's guides. Forged and Woven complement each other to provide a program that could last for weeks or even months for a church group but can also be adapted for families to use at home.

FORGED

Forged is designed for churches and families by Family Life Ministry especially for Orthodox young men in high school or early college. Along with our free downloadable facilitator's guide, Forged provides a framework for discussing important topics such as putting on the armor of Christ, developing positive habits, using technology wisely, and being a godly man in our modern world.

WOVEN

Woven and Forged complement one another. Woven is FLM's interactive book for Orthodox girls. Both books include resources beyond the printed page, such as things to create and do, so young people can develop friendships within their church setting.

PREPARING FOR THE JOURNEY OF MARRIAGE

In addition to meeting with their parish priest and completing necessary steps, couples getting married in the Metropolis of Atlanta attend an interactive and informative seminar entitled The Journey of Marriage as part of their preparation. Currently offered via Zoom, these seminars help couples discover God's purpose for marriage, learn how to work toward oneness, avoid the pitfalls that lead couples toward divorce, and establish good patterns for relating to one another.
